The total precipitation, however, was about 2.5 inches.

The sudden rise in temperature occurred about noon yesterday when the thermometer registered 22 degrees above.

CAB SERVICE MAINTAINED

Street car services were maintained throughout the storm by the B.C. Electric Railway Company. Track sweeps kept the right-of-way clear of snow.

The unprecedented weather conditions were responsible for a rock and slide along the flume line of the B.C. Electric power development at Jordan River. The slide occurred about midway between the forebay reservoir and the main diversion dam, taking out a length of the flume which conveys water from the main diversion dam to the forebay reservoir which, in turn, supplies the pressure pipe line leading to the turbines in the power house. The narrow gauge railway paralleling the flume also was damaged.

None of the damage was telephoned to Victoria and the company's standby clean plant was immediately brought into use without any interruption to the normal light and power service.

T. J. Goward, vice-president, stated that five feet of snow at Jordan River and unusual conditions of flood render repair work extremely arduous and difficult.

At the present time power is being supplied from Jordan River. The company's water power plant at Goldstream and from the main dam. Apart from the damage at Jordan River, engineers and workmen are now at the site of the damage and are effecting repairs.

Due to damage from frost, the roof of the store of Diggon-Ribben Ltd. on Government Street leaked to such an extent that water dripped through and did $600 worth of damage last night.

Water was also several inches deep in the main part of the store.

ten when he went back to his home in Leipzig to die. He always gave us the same old story on the spot, and later, when he was in two letters and two postal cards from Leipzig, he signed that name."

Mrs. Scherzer, who added that "John" acted terribly funny and extremely nervous, said she did not intend to testify in Hauptmann's behalf at the trial.

START OF SESSION

When the trial resumed this morning after the week-end recess, the state placed William E. Frank, a United States Treasury agent, on the witness stand to give a detailed account of Hauptmann's arrest and Hauptmann's finances before and after the payment of the $50,000 ransom for the slain Lindbergh baby.

Frank testified that on April 2, 1932, the day of the ransom payment, the total cash and stock assets of the Hauptmanns were $208.90 in the bank and $100 in stocks.

Then, Attorney-General David T. Wilentz asked how much cash was put by the Hauptmanns into brokerage accounts from April 2, 1932, day of the ransom payment, until September 19, 1934, the day of Hauptmann's arrest.

"From April 2, 1932, to September 19, 1934," said Frank, "in all the brokerage accounts of the defendant and his wife there was $16,942.75."

"The total amount of cash deposits in the bank accounts," Frank continued, "was $9,075.50."

LOST ON SPECULATIONS

Q. Can you tell us whether there was a profit or loss in all the brokerage accounts up until April 2, 1932?

A. There was a loss in that account. Frank said the loss amounted to $1,022.23.

Q. Give us the profit or loss in the Hauptmann accounts between April 2, 1932, and September 19, 1934?

A. There was a loss of $7,728.51.

The total of these two losses was $8,750.74.

Wilentz then requested the Treasury expert to total all the assets which came into the Hauptmanns' possession after April 2, 1932, the ransom payoff day.

INCLUDE RANSOM

The Attorney-General told the witness to include in the total the $16,900 ransom money found in the car, the $120 in gold coins found in the Hauptmann house and a $7,750 in mortgages the Hauptmanns had prior to the kidnapping.

Register Harry Crane and his staff in the Land Registry Office worked to save from damage the irreplaceable land records from the water which seeped through the roof.

In the Supreme Court general offices, Registrar B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake and his staff had pads on the floor to catch the water that came through their ceiling from the roof, two flights up.

Valuable collections of law books were threatened as the water began to seep through the ceiling into the Law Library.

In the jury and witness rooms, Superintendent William Jones had his assistants busy with mops and mops.

From the roof the water poured down the inside walls through to two floors below and into the office of Deputy Sheriff Langner on the ground floor.

The accumulation of water, through snow and ice clogging the drain-pipes was so heavy on one office building on Fort Street that the roof began to sag and a general collapse was feared. A hole was bored in the roof from the inside to drain the water through a special outlet. Many of the offices in the building were damaged by leaks before the pressure on top was relieved.

The basement of several stores and apartments were flooded up to a foot deep.

The city engineer's department reported somewhat extensive damage in the cutting area.

SEVERAL FLOODS

Floods were reported on Heywood Avenue, at the corner of Alpha Street and at the corner of San Juan Avenue and Niagara Street, where rowboats were being peddled about in two feet of water. Apart from the floods at Shalbourne and King's Avenue, Bowker Creek was said to be backing up.

Minor damage was sustained at the City Hall (third floor), plaster falling from the ceilings in several departments. The mahobles of the street cluster lights were flooded and this may threaten the city cluster light system to-night.

HIGHWAYS SUFFER

All sections of lower island highways suffered extensively from the rapid thaw and motorists headed for the city were stuck all along the roads, which were impassable in some parts.

Damage was reported on the East Beach Road, 200 yards north of the Seattle Telephone Exchange, at Shady Creek. The combined frost and flooding waters tore the road and provincial works department crews were out first thing this morning to attempt repairs and allow traffic to pass.

The Spanish highways are clear in a circular route, the police report. The municipal snow plough was out all night and cleared the East Road as far as Mount Newton-Cross Road. It then proceeded along Mount Newton-Cross Road and completed the loop. Police stated these highways could be used but motorists should proceed with care as in some places there are ponds eighteen inches deep across the road.

Shalbourne Street is also under water in many places. The worst section is at the north end of the road where the water is about six inches deep. Near the junction of Cedar Hill-Cross Road the road is also submerged.

It was considered advisable that motorists should not use the Main-Kinop Road as it was treacherous just below the Broadwood subdivision.

BOATS ON SCHEDULE

The storm caused a slight interruption in the Gulf service between Victoria and the mainland, but regular services were resumed to-day.

The St. Princess Alice, regular Seattle boat, did not leave yesterday but departed at 2 a.m. to-day for Seattle, and left the Puget Sound port

Joint account in all the years from 1928 down until it was closed in 1931;

A. The total deposits were $12,300.30, in that joint account.

SEPARATE ACCOUNT

A separate account was opened in the wife's maiden name about the time of the kidnapping, in the Central Savings Bank, the witness said, responding to a question from Bailly.

Bailly elicited testimony that in 1929, when the Hauptmanns' joint bank accounts were transferred back to Mrs. Hauptmann's maiden name, the deposits totaled $2,512.

He then pointed out to the witness that in the pre-kidnap years the Hauptmanns' deposits were only about $700 below that figure.

"That is correct," thought agreed. Bailly swung his attention to Hauptmann's bank account in Mr. Vernon, 27, which was opened three months after the kidnapping.

The big defense chief asked his witness when he asked if the account had not been opened "with the large sum of $25,000."

"With the sum of $25,000, yes."

The witness then said Hauptmann's total deposits at the Mr. Vernon institution were $1,677.50.

In August, 1934, Frank went on, Hauptmann opened a savings account with total deposits of $1,677.50.

In the Bank of Montreal, he added, Hauptmann carried a savings account begun in 1928 and closed with $700 in it in 1932.

So the witness said, Anna and Richard were doing a banking business before and after the kidnapping?

A. Yes, sir.

WALL STREET VENTURES

"Let's go to Wall Street," the chief defense counsel turning his question to the stock ventures.

Frank recalled the defendant first opened an account with Currier, West & Company on November 1, 1932.

Hauptmann deposited $2,000—$200 cash and a cheque for $1,800—in opening his first account, the expert testified.

There were numerous sales when it came out that the Bronx alien's first market transaction in the stock market was the purchase of 100 shares of $3.00.

The profit came on the sale of a bloc of Ford Motor Company of Canada.

Details of other sales were recounted.

In February, 1933, Bailly brought out, Hauptmann began dealing on margin.

Q. Then he didn't need so much money?

A. No, sir.

The testimony droned on. Each time a stock was bought or sold, each time a balance was taken on the statement, Bailly had the witness explain fully Hauptmann's Wall Street maneuvers.

Frank obviously was attempting to offset the impression of the figure $25,000 given for the 1932 ransom money.

"If I have a ten-point margin I only have to deposit $100 for every $1,000 worth of stock," he said.

"If I want in three to-day and bought $10,000 worth of stock it would appear on their books as though I have a $10,000 purchase," he said.

"Yes, sir."

Then, a little later, Bailly shot out: "So that everything a man buys on margin is really his own money?"

"That is correct," he replied.

"That is exclusive of any cash loan made by the defendant?" inquired the Attorney-General.

The state was apparently laying the ground work for testimony on the $7,500 loan the Bronx alien said he made to the late leader Fisch, his business partner and who he said left the ransom money in his care.

Wilentz then turned Frank over to chief defense counsel Bailly for cross-examination.

FINANCIAL EXPERT

Bailly brought out from Frank that the defendant's wife had opened a bank account Oct. 27, 1934, in the Central Savings Bank in New York.

Q. How much did she deposit?

A. Two hundred dollars.

The witness said her annual deposits in the next five years varied between $1,000 and $2,000.

The account was closed in 1938.

Bailly asked the Treasury expert to total the bank deposits Mrs. Hauptmann made in the five years before the account was changed from her maiden name, Anna Scherzer, to a joint account with her husband in January, 1932.

Q. Was $5,777.91, the witness replied.

Q. Was $2,750 drawn out in October, 1927?

A. Yes.

When the account closed in January, 1928, the witness was slightly more than $100 in it, the investigator said.

A joint account was opened in 1928, with a deposit that year of $1,165.32. In 1930, it was $1,500.19; in 1931, $2,100.25; and 1932, $2,100.25.

Q. And in 1933—up until the account closed in March?

A. $2,710.

Bailly directed Frank's attention to withdrawals from the joint accounts, which ranged from $857 to amounts less than $100.

An $8,000 deposit shortly after the kidnapping, Frank said, was not the return of that money but of funds taken from Hauptmann's brokerage accounts.

TOTAL WAS $18,338

Vancouver reported transportation almost completely paralyzed to-day. Schools and many places of business were closed and property damage, it is reported, will run to thousands of dollars.

lumber obstructing the passage to the water, were removed together and required the aid of a team of several men to move them before we could get to the edge of the wharf to set the machine in action."

PRESSURE LOW

Four lines were put in the centre of the mill from the mill house and one from another hydrant. Some men went to the log chute, from which they crawled under the western side of the planer to direct their hoses into the blaze when it started. More men were stationed at the storage sheds to protect them. With the pressure low, the men had to walk through the fire. They were nearly roasted and had to direct their hoses on themselves to cut down the heat at times.

Unable to reach the blaze from the water side, the men were forced in between the sheds, the incinerator and the dry kiln to battle the flames.

Unfortunately there was no wind at the time, and the melting snow and ice, while hampering the firemen, helped to check the advance of the fire.

At the height of the blaze the force had 1,500 feet of hose from each wagon in use, but until the pump-putting out the blaze when it started, the hose was not used.

BOUGHT UNDER CONTROL

The flames were brought under control about 6.30 o'clock this morning, but firemen were kept on the job putting out blazes that sprang up intermittently.

The planer was a two-story building on the waterfront. Immediately around it were the power house, the incinerator, the sawmill and dry shed.

Besides the planing mill, the gravity carrier leading to the shingle mill, the sawmill and the planing mill were destroyed. Mr. Kinsinger stated.

The planer, which at the height of its activity carried over 100 men, was used occasionally by a skeleton staff of ten or fifteen men.

The mill had not been in use for several days.

APPROXIMATELY

No fires were on at the mill when the blaze started, steam not having been up since January 7. Mr. Kinsinger believed the conflagration to have started near the shingle mill.

"It is hard to say whether it was there or not, but the fire started," he said.

Asked if he thought it was of incendiary origin, he replied he was not sure to state anything at present.

"Our total business will be carried on as usual," Mr. Kinsinger stated.

William Sloan, night watchman, was the only man on duty when the fire was discovered at about 2.45 o'clock.

THIRD RECENT MILL FIRE HERE

A heap of twisted machinery, charred timbers and smoking debris marked the site of the planer, the third of the city's biggest mill structures destroyed by fire since 1911.

The Cameron Lumber Company went up in flames on February 23, 1931, with an estimated loss of $175,000. The Morton Lumber Company, a subsidiary of the Cameron Lumber Company, was destroyed by fire on June 16 last with a loss of $150,000.

In addition to the local mill those at Shawinigan Falls and Kestow were destroyed last year and the planing witness directed two motorists to the Lindbergh estate.

"Hauptmann," he said, "was not one of the two motorists."

A Memphian dispatch yesterday evening said:

The Bruno Hauptmann defence has subpoenaed a woman who, it was said, is in a position to name certain persons she believes were involved in kidnapping the Lindbergh baby and collecting the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom.

The witness to Mrs. Bertha Hoff, a German-American housewife, living in New York City. Her story is being heard by her husband.

She said she was prepared to name Hauptmann as one of the suspects, and it was stated she had also given the names of the others, together with a detailed story which she believes affords a strong circumstantial case against them.

Fisch died in Germany. He is the son of a Jewish family. He believed the money found in his possession at the time of his arrest.

"I never knew Hauptmann or heard of him until his arrest," said Mrs. Hoff, "I can't see how he could have been in it."

"I am certain Hauptmann was involved, and equally certain there was a detailed story which she believes affords a strong circumstantial case against them."

He left two suitcases and two small packages at my home."

The sinking of the famous run runner five years ago, 200 miles off the coast of Louisiana, was the subject of numerous diplomatic discussions between the Canadian and American governments to achieve a final settlement by appointment of a commission consisting of Sir Lyman Poore Duff, Chief Justice of Canada, and Willis Van Devanter, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

The commission on January 5 handed down a decision in which it recommended that the Canadian government be tendered an apology and paid $25,000 damages, and that $25,000.50 be awarded to the captain and members of the crew.

FIREMEN FRAMED

Five people turned out to watch the spectacular blaze which cast a red glow over Victoria's sky from 3 o'clock until dawn. The snow and snow turned the part into a slush on top of the ice, and the firemen were left alone. They worked heroically to stop the flames. Many had been called from their beds after long work and shifts during which they had responded to many minor calls.

Chief Munro was warm in his praise of the manner in which the men handled the outbreak. With the added risk of insecure footing and little protection afforded through the low pressure which prevented covering streams being shot to them, they showed unsolicited courage, the chief said.

The Canadian Puget Sound lumbering enterprise dates back to the early days of Victoria, and it, in conjunction with the exceptional stand of timber on the West Coast of this island near Jordan River, was responsible for the Sayward family fortune.

The enterprise was started by William Francis Sayward, who came from Florida to the gold diggings in California in 1849, and then moved up to Victoria in 1857. Shortly after his

ONTARIO CHANGES TELEPHONE CALL

"Parliament Buildings" Ruled Out For Operators By Provincial Minister

Canadian Press
Toronto, Jan. 21.—Hon. T. B. McQueen, Ontario Minister of Highways and Public Works, has ruled the telephone operators at the Legislative Building must answer calls with "Provincial Government," and not the old response, "Parliament Buildings."

Mr. McQueen's department, which has charge of the telephone system in the buildings, went further than correcting the inaccuracy at the central switchboard. The new telephone directory for Toronto also made the change. Offices "formerly under 'Parliament Buildings'" are now capped by the heavy black line "Province of Ontario."

The department found that some persons who told they were speaking to the "Parliament Buildings," understood the title to mean the legislative chamber itself.

Another reason for the change was the Ottawa practice of answering calls with the words "Dominion Government."

In Victoria the telephone girls say "Parliament Buildings" in answering calls.

MAP OF GERMANY WILL BE REVISED

Reports from Berlin state the map of Germany, which underwent great revision after the World War, is due for another major change of face. A new law, certain of passage by the Reichstag, meeting January 22, will abolish the existing state boundaries. It will provide for a redivision of Germany into new districts or territories, the borders of which will conform as much as possible with the allocation of Reichswasser units. With this division, the vast territory of Prussia will be wiped out as a state except for one relatively small territory, now East Prussia. It virtually spells the end for the Prussians as a people who have dominated Germany for centuries. The word "Prussian" has denoted a powerful brand of state politics, militarism and philosophy since the Middle Ages.

SAYS ALL JEWS ARE WANDERING

No Place to Go in This Age, Declares Federation President

Toronto, Jan. 21.—The Jew of 1935 has no place to go, A. J. Freeman, president of the Canadian Federation of Jewish Societies, said in his opening address yesterday before the delegates to the twenty-fourth Zionist Convention.

"The wandering Jew is no longer a fiction; he has come to life," Freeman said. "It is not an actual fact that he has no place to go."

"Even in Russia," Freeman said, "where they had equality and individually, as Jews they were utterly lost."

Rebels Julius Gordon of St. Louis, Missouri, said "there is no unemployment in Tel-Aviv, the new metropolis of Palestine."

Guns Registered On The Prairies

Great Variety of Pistols Seen as New Federal Regulations Enforced

Winnipeg, Jan. 21.—An aura of distant days when rustling gentlemen rode the prairie has hung over the province with enforcement of new Dominion regulations which require registration of revolvers to conform with Criminal Code amendments.

"Gun-toting" reached a new high as thousands of old weapons were brought out of hiding. Many of them were reminiscent of the era when the cry of "Stand and Deliver" interrupted the schedule of coach mail.

There were horse pistols with wicked-looking muzzles a foot long, mummie-loading antiques, flintlocks, percussion pistols, old prairie wolf pistols and shiny new automatics. Some of the mummie-loaders had carved wooden handles with notches cut in them. Many were so old the serial numbers had disappeared.

The new order disturbed a strange piece of artillery at Regina, where a small brass cannon, one of the old mummie-loading type, was hailed to the police station for inspection. It had a history dating back to the Crimean War.

At Moose Jaw a mummie-loading pistol was found to have been fully loaded for twenty years. More than 4,000 revolvers were recorded at Winnipeg. A large percentage of owners proved to be women.

"IT ISN'T LOADED"

Edmonton, Jan. 21.—The most embarrassing part of registering small arms is the manner in which owners handle their weapons, in the opinion of H. B. Reynolds, in charge of Dominion gun registration.

Reynolds was practicing what he preached when an antique weapon he was holding discharged. He was pointing it at a wall behind which was a steel filing cabinet. The old bullet was not even strong enough to penetrate the wall.

GANGSTER TELLS OF MURDER

Philadelphia, Jan. 21.—Detective James Malone, who aided in the capture of Robert Maize and his "Tri-state Gang" in New York to-day, said one of those arrested had implicated the dead in the kidnapping and suspected slaying of William Weiss, night life figure.

"We tied a rope around his (Weiss's) neck and kicked him into the Delaware River," Malone quoted one member of the gang as telling authorities.

Weiss was "snatched" last October by three men as he drove his car up to his suburban home. He has not been seen since.

SPECIAL LICENSE NUMBERS REFUSED

Toronto, Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Ontario motorists who plank down money for license plates and do not care what numbers they draw are well fellows in the eyes of the J. P. Rickell, registrar of motor vehicles.

Numerologists, certain types of romancers, players of hunches and the even-odd boys must step aside. The department of public highways makes no effort to gratify individual desires for freak numbers.

If a man wants a license plate bearing the number corresponding to the year he met his wife, the department does not care. If he wants the numbers to add up to thirteen or steer clear of the number figure, he needs not bother the department about it.

One Toronto citizen, aiming to correct his wife's poor memory of what the family car looked like, asked for a license bearing the number of his house. He almost succeeded. Some people who may be smart

"Station-to-Station"

the cheapest class of long-distance telephone service has been extended to include calls to

Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland Points

THE Classified System of Long-Distance Service, which was already in effect on calls to British Columbia points east of Hope and to other parts of Canada and to the United States, has been extended to the remainder of our lines. The Classified System brings with it the advantage of station-to-station calls, which are the cheapest kind of long-distance service.

On a station-to-station call you call a particular telephone but not a particular person, and you pay if someone answers at that telephone, no matter who it is.

You say, for example, "I want anyone at 345, Duncan."

Or, "I want anyone at the home of William Jones, Blank Street, Duncan."

Or, "I want anyone at Smith's Furniture Store, Duncan."

On station-to-station calls there are day, evening and night rates. On person-to-person calls the rate is the same at all hours. The minimum period for both classes of service is three minutes.

Auxiliary Does Much For Tuberculous Veterans

Mrs. W. H. Booth Re-elected President For Sixth Year; Little Group Accomplishes Much Good Work

Mrs. W. H. Booth was re-elected president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Tuberculous Veterans' Association for the sixth year at the annual meeting held on Saturday afternoon at the home of the secretary, Mrs. E. V. Campbell, 1716 Fort Street, on Saturday afternoon.

Campbell all being recipients of gifts.

Twenty-three members were present. Mrs. Booth, in her presidential address, thanked all the members for the support that had been given her in this past year, for without loyalty and co-operation the auxiliary would not have accomplished very much in their objective, that is the helping of tuberculous veterans and their widows. The secretary then gave her report and told of all that had been accomplished in the past twelve months. Card parties, silver teas, a bazaar, and guessing competitions had been arranged with much success. The treasurer's report was warmly applauded, as the amount of money raised in the year had been large for such a small band of women.

WOMAN'S TROUBLE

WOMEN who suffer from pain in side or back, catarrhal drainage, etc., should take this reliable vegetable tonic known for 60 years as Dr. Foster's Favorite Prescription. This is what Mrs. G. L. writes: "My nerves were bad, I couldn't sleep or eat, but after I took your Foster's Favorite Prescription and gained enough sleep, also my nerves became calm, my body and head were healthy and I was able to carry on. Now the matter of my drainage I feel that my ovaries should be of value to all women."

EXILED WOMAN ON WAY TO B.C.

Suffered Hardships in Siberia; to Join Husband in 1931

Halifax, Jan. 21.—With bitter memories of exile to Siberia, still haunting her, Mrs. Farkas Hrebrow, with her two children, was on her way across Canada to join her husband at Kimberley, B.C., to-day after years of delay in securing this country.

Back in 1921, Hrebrow applied to the Canadian immigration authorities for admission of his wife and children. Permission was granted, but in the meantime Mrs. Hrebrow and the two children were banished from Russia and started the long trek to frozen Siberia because she owned fourteen acres of land and refused to work it under the U.S.S.R. collective farm system. The land was confiscated.

It was only recently they were able to secure passports to enter the Dominion.

Flays U.S. President's Daughter in Sermon

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 21.—Speaking on the sanctity of marriage yesterday at St. Mary's Catholic Church, of which he is pastor, the Rev. A. Brennan asserted that "the President's daughter was a shocking example for her marriage last week to a divorced man, with her own divorced husband still living."

The reference was to the marriage last Friday of Anna Curtis Roosevelt, 21, to a former Chicago newspaperman, John Boggs.

HOLD-UP MAN GETS SURPRISE

New York, Jan. 21.—A hand reached out of the dark and clutched Marion Miller by the throat when she returned to her Greenwich village apartment last Saturday night.

Instead of welcoming the disheveled, twenty-four-year-old artist let go with a right cross that brought a grunt of pain from her unwelcome guest. Then she seized him by the throat and yelled.

Charles Mahig, waiting outside with Miss Miller's mother and stepfather who she went in to turn on the lights, the intruder was sitting on the prostrate man's chest when police arrived.

The story came out to-day when John W. Smith, twenty-eight, was arraigned on a charge of burglary and held without bail for grand jury action.

Police said he had served time in Canada for robbery and larceny.

London, Jan. 21. (Associated Press)—Former Princess Helen of Romania, divorced wife of King Carol, was reported to have accepted a proposal of marriage from an Italian Prince, according to a special dispatch published in the Sunday Express to-day.

The Italian Prince was identified last night as an ex-ambassador, member of the Roman house of Colonna.

The paper published a rumor from Rome that Princess Helen was about to enter the Roman Catholic Church, a rumor from Florence added that the step was preliminary to a marriage and that the Vatican, which does not recognize divorce, may consider Princess Helen's marriage to King Carol.

It was stated the Italian nobleman visited Princess Helen when she was in Rome and Prince Michael, her son, was there together during the Christmas holidays.

The article said the courts at Bucharest and the Orthodox Church synod of Romania had been asked to annul the marriage of King Carol to Princess Helen.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By MARY E. DUGAN

Never were oranges and grapefruit more juicy and delicious than this year. So plentiful, too, that they may easily be overdone. So, filling again with tangy marmalade.

Combination marmalade is using orange, lemon and grapefruit with fine effect. Try it thus:

One large grapefruit, 1 large orange, 1 large lemon, 1 cup cold water, 1 cup granulated sugar.

Use firm-fleshed seedless orange. Wash fruit and wipe dry. Cut into quarters through the peel and pulp and then into very thin slices. Discard seeds of grapefruit and lemon and the white pith in the center of all the fruit. Add cold water and let stand overnight. In the morning, cook until the peel is tender. It may be cooked in a double boiler, or in a saucepan with the water in the center of the fruit. Add cold water and let stand overnight. In the morning, cook until the peel is tender. It may be cooked in a double boiler, or in a saucepan with the water in the center of the fruit.

ORANGE MARMALADE

Six oranges, 2 lemons, sugar and water according to following directions.

Wash fruit, cut off ends. Cut in half and remove seeds from lemons. Chop off very thin slices, cutting through the rind and pulp. Cover with cold water and let stand twenty-four hours. Put over the fire and bring to the boiling point. Simmer thirty minutes. Let stand again for twenty-four hours. Add 1 cup granulated sugar for each cup of fruit and juice and cook until thick. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin.

For an unusually pretty marmalade, peel the fruit and cook the peels until tender. Remove from water and scrape off the soft white part, leaving only the yellow outside. Cut the rind in thin match-like strips with a knife. Cut the fruit in thin slices, and cook in cold water for twenty minutes. Add sugar and prepared rind and cook until it jellies.

Kumquats which can also be made up by this recipe, are cut in thin slices with seeds removed, covered with cold water and allowed to stand for twenty-four hours. All three cups sugar to four cups fruit and juice. Cook until thick and pour into sterilized glasses. Cover with paraffin.

A good, cheap marmalade, not generally known, is made by increasing the fruit bulk with the addition of carrots.

CARROT MARMALADE

One pound of carrots, 2 lemons, 1 orange, 4 cups sugar.

Wash and scrape carrots and put through food chopper. Barely cover carrots and lemon rinds with water and cook until tender. Cut oranges in very thin slices, through skin and pulp. Combine sugar and lemon rind, orange slices and 1 cup boiling water. Cook until a little of the mixture, tried on a cold saucer, jellies. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin.

Monday's Menu

Breakfast—Bananas, cereal, cream, crisp, toasted bread, salt marmalade, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Potato and salt marmalade, whole wheat bread, and marmalade sandwiches, lemon jelly with whipped cream, milk, and coffee.

Dinner—Boiled tongue with raisin sauce, grilled sweet potatoes, scalloped tomatoes and corn, pineapple and fig salad, date and nut pudding, milk, coffee.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It is obvious that a mother cannot give two children of different ages exactly the same attention. But she should be able to give both of them enough attention so that there is no reason for jealousy. When jealousy is present it should be dealt with by understanding mothers that she is somehow failing to imbue the jealous child with a real sense of security in her affection.

The two-year-old is so close to infancy it is no wonder when a new baby arrives, with laughter and shouting that he longs to return to the family interest. Mothers then must work a little harder to create a new desire in the older child to enjoy his new position as the elder.

OLDER HAS BEEN BABIED

Mrs. J. M. W. writes: "I have a boy of two and a baby of four months. Ever since the baby arrived the boy has acted terribly. When I feed the baby he insists I wait upon him in some way or another. He has had a terrible case of eczema and still suffers from it. Because of this he has been babied a lot. I have had him to all kinds of doctors and even in a hospital. Now one doctor wants to use light treatments. Please give me your opinion of this."

First the jealousy. Enlist the boy's aid in caring for the baby. Make him feel himself a valuable member of the family instead of an outsider looking in.

Let him bring you baby's diapers, hold the pins, apply oil or powder. Suggest that he keep baby entertained until the bottle is ready.

Talk about "your baby brother," and call him, "baby's big brother."

Remind him of how helpful he is, and how much he does for baby. When he has this new idea firmly in mind he'll forget the place he wanted as baby in the family and feel pride in his new position.

Now for the eczema. Won't you send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for the leaflets on "What Mothers Should Know About Eczema," and "Suggested Diet for Food Sensitive Child."

No one can tell you whether the light treatments will be helpful in every case, but they are worth trying. Eczema, taking out seeds, and diet and environment need correction, too, and I trust the leaflets will give you a better idea of the many possible causes of this trying ailment and what you may do, as a mother, to help it.

MANNISH SUITS TO BE FASHION

Loud Checks and Tweeds to Be Worn; Shirt-waist Dresses Popular

By ANNA FREEMAN Associated Press

New York, Jan. 21.—The foundations of the spring wardrobe were laid this week in the early showings of suits and shirt-waist type dresses.

In their tailored versions, to which a number of houses are giving more importance than in any recent season, the suit models offered a number of surprises.

In cut, many models followed the lines of a man's sports jacket, with wide notched lapels and buttoned back and skirt waist type dresses.

In large patch pockets, collar worn of the wrap pocket type, belted tightly. Short A-line suits of silk and linen, and brief suits of silk or linen.

Two-piece suits of silk or linen, with three-quarter length coat supplementing with tailored skirt. Overalls and a pair of trousers.

Changes, was a four-piece suit, representing almost a complete wardrobe in itself. This combined a two-piece suit with a skirt, a jacket, lined with the price of the dress. The dress, of the shirt-waist type, featured by the collar, pockets and long sleeves.

PERMANENT ART GALLERY URGED

National Treasures Should Be Housed in Ottawa, Parliament Told

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—Reporting that interest in art in Canada is at its highest point in history, the trustees of the National Gallery of Canada in their annual report emphasize the necessity of providing a permanent building for the gallery which would safeguard the national art treasures and form a monument on Canadian art.

The report of the trustees was signed by E. B. Southern of Ottawa, chairman, and presented to the House of Commons Saturday by Minister of Public Works H. A. Stewart.

The trustees declare "such a building would at the same time permit the exhibition of the Canadian war memorabilia collection, which is now in its sixteenth year of storage, while the interest in the deeds and events it illustrates are still acutely remembered by the public."

Canada lags behind the other Dominions in respect to a gallery building the trustees say, as America, New Zealand and South Africa have all recognized the importance of the arts by building national institutions for their housing, teaching and study.

To Bar Smoking Women Teachers

London, Ont., Jan. 21.—Cigarette-smoking co-ed of the university of to-day will be barred as teachers of to-morrow in Middlesex rural schools. Fred McGill, president of the Middlesex school trustees and Ratepayers' Association, said in a convention addressed here Saturday.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICE HART

The real test of correct make-up comes when your face is in repose. Rouge, powder, lipstick and eye cosmetics are pretty apt to look attractive when you are laughing or actively engaged in conversation. Any way, unless it's too haphazardly applied, no one notices your make-up at such times. It's when you are calm and quiet—not talking, not smiling—that people take mental notes on your grooming.

Try to relax when you start to use your beauty preparations. If possible, lie down in front of a dressing table that is equipped with everything you will need. Make sure the light is just right.

First of all, put on foundation lotion. Then, maintaining a placid expression, blend in cream rouge. If you smile, you are almost sure to get break between school and "follow up" in classroom and tends to say the least to defeat the object for which school terms are raised.

Another little side light on the question of library service may not be worth stating. It would I think be somewhat surprising to learn how many elderly people have been introduced to the general public by the library service.

At a recent meeting of the C.C.F. at which I was the speaker, Mr. Sheppard criticized me for advocating "constitutional" means.

He said that such a course was impracticable, and I understood that at a subsequent meeting called for the purpose of hearing the views of the rival candidates, he intimated that he was in favor of direct action.

Having mentioned the creed of the C.C.F., Mr. Sheppard's attitude toward the revolution by force, means in the words of Marx himself.

UNEMPLOYMENT

deal with the local situation as it exists to-day.

On Vancouver Island we have a small number of nature business now lying dormant. There are thousands of able, willing hands and brains to profitably develop them, despite the depression and the artificial obstacles of tariffs and restrictions created by politicians.

Further, on Vancouver Island we have a greater percentage of citizenry position of real wealth than in any other part of Canada.

Surely it is not too fatuous or too hopeless to suggest that since the government has failed to deliver the promised "Work and Wage" opportunities who are not entirely oblivious of the welfare of their fellow-men and their province should contribute the benefit of their experience and some of their money in an effort to at least by private enterprise attempt to establish some means to absorb our unemployed and give our young people a chance.

The establishment of small industries might or might not prove financially successful, but those in our midst who have built up considerable fortunes in the more prosperous times of this province, and now, even at the risk of a loss, reinvest a small part of their past gains for the betterment of the community in which they live.

Many suggestions could be made as to small industrial projects which, but for the absence of capital, could be operated under proper management with reasonable prospects of success. From the business industries of lumber, fisheries, farming, etc., commodities could be produced, manufactured and marketed which would give employment to numbers of people. Without capital, however, enterprise is stagnant. Instead of standing idly looking at the problem and indulging in academic discussions of great changes which may materialize in some remote generation, why not meet the local situation in a business-like way.

A strong committee composed of citizens of wealth and constructive experience to promote the establishment of small industrial undertakings on Vancouver Island would surely be performing a service of far greater value to the people of Victoria than that which is engaged in the development of tourist trade, the benefits from which fail to reach the working class.

THE C.C.F.

To the Editor—I do not intend to allow Mr. Sheppard to evade the issue by arguing about the empire, particularly as my views thereon are no concern of his.

The manifesto of the C.C.F. states explicitly that its object is to replace the present capitalist system "by a social order from which the domination and exploitation of one class by another will be eliminated. We do not believe in change by violent means but seek to achieve them only by constitutional means."

Mr. Sheppard went out of his way to stress me when I pointed out that the revolution by force, means in the words of Marx himself.

At a recent meeting of the C.C.F. at which I was the speaker, Mr. Sheppard criticized me for advocating "constitutional" means.

At a recent meeting of the C.C.F. at which I was the speaker, Mr. Sheppard criticized me for advocating "constitutional" means.

He said that such a course was impracticable, and I understood that at a subsequent meeting called for the purpose of hearing the views of the rival candidates, he intimated that he was in favor of direct action.

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Lane for Bonheur

An quiet as school days had ended, the excitement when she tried to find work. At first she would not hear of her brother leaving high school. Her two years' training made her confident that there was work she could do, even that would earn enough to keep up the household.

But Gale was inexperienced and there were no jobs—even for those with experience. Trying times. Hard times. Men out of work, standing in bread lines, women asking for charity to keep their children fed and warm. A few weeks' searching brought a desperate awakening to the seriousness of the situation. Gale was glad to become a mill girl. She earned $16 a week in the mill and was sure that in time it would be more.

The $16 did not stretch as Gale had hoped. One day when Phil announced with determination that he was not going back to school, she did not care. Brother and sister had worked in the mill ever since. Their earnings paid the bills for their living. Their father and for his medical treatment. Gale was a widow. At seventeen she had gone to work as a bobbin boy. Now he was in the spinning room, considered one of the choicest, most reliable men.

The girl knew he cared for her—cared deeply. And her feelings for Steve? Gale's heart beat a little faster when she asked him the question, she felt warm, glowing, but she put off answering. She thought she had no right to give the answer. There were her own responsibilities. There were Steve's. She was totally unprepared that winter afternoon when she felt Steve's hand on her arm, hailing her. She looked up, heard in a voice not as all Steve's naturally, "Listen, Gale, I want to talk to you. You know I'm crazy about you—I've been crazy about you for a long time. Before you went away to school, I didn't think I'd have a chance then, but you came back—since then, when we've been going around together—well, sometimes I've hoped—listen, Gale, will you marry me?"

She frowned. Her eyes, shadowed by the late afternoon light, looked almost black. She said softly, tremulously, "But, Steve—"

"Does that mean you won't? That you don't care anything about me?"

"Steve!" she touched his arm. "I couldn't marry anyone—but right now, I do care a lot for you. A lot. You've done so much for me—for all of us. I don't know how I could have gone along without you! But we can't get married. I mean, even if I was sure—"

"Then you're not sure? You don't know whether or not you want to marry me?"

"I couldn't marry anyone, Steve. You know that. I've got father to think about. And Phil. I couldn't."

"I'm not asking you to leave them. I mean, we could find some way. Phil's old enough to look after himself, and we'd manage about your father somehow."

"And there's your mother," the girl interrupted. "Don't you see, Steve, we can't—can't talk about getting married."

"No," Steve said. "I don't see anything of the kind. I—I love you, Gale. I want to marry you. That's all there is to think about. You and me. We've both been working for a long time. Aren't we entitled to some happiness? Don't you want to be putting things off—waiting for times to get better or for this or that to happen—we'll always be waiting? Oh, Gale—"

His arm was around her now. The girl drew back. "No, Steve," she said.

"Well," he said roughly. "I guess that's the answer. You don't need to try to make it easy for me!"

She turned quickly. "Steve, I can't say I'll marry you. I do care for you! You've been the best friend I've had. But there's no use pretending things aren't the way they are. We couldn't be married—"

"You could say whether or not you want to marry me—whether you love me."

There was an instant's silence; then the girl said softly, "Wait a few days, Steve. You'll let me have a" few days to think about it, won't you? I'll tell you then."

"Why sure—if that's what you want," he agreed.

Three hours later Gale closed the door of the house softly behind her and stood for a moment on the top step.

The winter moonlight fell over the little patch of yard, over the street with its rows of box-like houses on either side. It was almost as bright as daylight, and yet there was made in the night that hid the ugliness of the street.

Gale was wearing a jacket of leather over her short, dark skirt, and on her head was a scarlet hat. She carried a pair of ice skates.

She went down the steps, walking briskly. It was immediately too perfect a night to remain indoors. Phil had left the house immediately after dinner, as usual. Her father was reading. There was no reason, Gale told herself why she should not spend an hour on the river.

She turned a corner and, ahead, could see figures moving across the river. Steve went down to the boathouse. A few yards away, near the edge of the ice, a bonfire was burning. Half a dozen boys and girls stood near it, and Gale recognized among them Joey Dwindle and one of the O'Connors boys. She sat down on a log and began putting on her skates.

It was in a bright red sweater, swinging past, it was Katie Shantz from the mill, skating hand in hand with a boy from the shipping-room. Steve's sister? Katie called, nearer.

"Home, I guess."

Someone caught Katie's arm, whispering and around there was general laughter, and Gale swung out on the ice, heading up the river.

It was glorious—gliding with sure, swift strokes, feeling the wind against her face. Silver and black was the river. A silver ribbon winding between dark banks. Gale skated faster. She wanted to get away from the others—to have the silvery, moonlit river to herself. Out here she could think.

Katie's question about Steve. It was partly because of Steve that Gale had come to the river to-night, alone. She hadn't wanted Steve to come with her. Steve was waiting for the answer to his question—and Gale didn't know the answer. Sometimes when things went so badly, she thought of marriage as a refuge. Steve's strength to rely on. Steve's kindness. Oh, yes, he was kind. And yet, vaguely, Gale knew that Steve wasn't the man she had pictured in her romantic dreams. What of it? Did any girl ever realize those dreams—really?

Steve wasn't asking her to marry him now. Of course she couldn't do that. It was sure to be a long time in the future. There was her father and Phil—

Gale had been skating easily. She had rounded the bend, taking her out of sight of the crowd near the boathouse. The shimmering, silver river called her and Gale leaned against the wind, feeling with longer, faster strokes. She saw the black outline of a stump frozen in the ice ahead, served to avoid it—and suddenly felt the surface beneath her feet shake. Gale heard the crack, screamed. She knew what had happened. She cried out again, helpless.

CHAPTER II

The man said, "Steady now. Slowly—take your time. Yes, that's right—"

He was lying on the ice, stretched out at full length. He held a long branch from a tree which he had shoved forward so Gale could reach it.

She gasped hysterically. She had pulled herself to the edge of the broken ice. Behind her the water shone, inky black. Her wet clothing clung to her.

"I—I can't," she stammered. "I can't do it—"

Smoothly, calmly. Like a general in command. The voice steadied the girl's senses. She managed to push herself along. She could feel the ice straining, but it did not crack. It did not crack! Inch by inch—slowly, cautiously—on toward security.

"I can't!" Gale cried out once again in terror. And then, a moment later, "All right—I-I can make it!"

"Of course you can," the man said. "Once again now—"

He was puffing, tugging at his end of the branch.

Together they moved slowly across the ice surface. At last the man said, "All right!"

He reached for her arm. "It's all right," he said again. "The ice is soft here. Oh, those skates—"

He was down on the ice again, unbuttoning the straps about Gale's ankles, taking the skates off.

"They made me clumsy," the girl said, "couldn't seem to move."

"You're all right now," the man told her, helping her to her feet. "Boiled through, aren't you? I'd ought to have something hot to drink for you to drink to."

"Oh, no," Gale said. "I—I just want to go home. I shouldn't have come so far away from the others. I didn't think it happened so quickly."

"I'll say it did," the man agreed grinning. "I heard you call just as I came around the bend."

"If you hadn't—I!" The girl looked at him, wide-eyed.

"Somebody who would have," he assured her cheerfully. "Although, at that, the crowd seems to have gone the other way to-night. Wish some of them would show up so we could get you something to drink."

Knowledge of Muscles REQUIRED IN MASSAGE
Qualified Masseuse Will Recognize Damaged Tissues and Apply Treatment That Will Restore Them to Health
By DR. MORRIS FISHER

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Massage will help restore life to tissues that have been bruised, sprained, or fractured. But that isn't the only reason. Rubbing may do a good deal of harm, as well as good. A qualified masseuse must have a knowledge of the parts concerned and of the way in which they work, and he must also know the difference between normal tissues and damaged ones.

One of the chief values of massage is to exercise parts of the body that cannot be exercised normally after an injury. If the tissues are kept absolutely quiet, they are injured by lack of use. Gentle massage of the abdomen occasionally aids movements in the large bowel. When massage is applied to muscles, it stimulates them and aids removal of the products of muscle action. When a muscle acts, it uses up oxygen and develops lactic acid.

Reports in massage recognize several different types of motion, which are used for specific purposes. First there is a stroking movement, with the palm of the hand applied firmly and evenly away from the extremities and toward the heart. Purpose of this movement is to aid in draining the veins in the skin and thereby to improve the circulation of the blood. A light and even stroking of the skin away from the heart and toward the extremities is believed by some masseurs to help relax muscle spasms.

When there are thickening of the tissue under the skin and when the movement is applied to loosen up the thickening and the stiffness of the muscles. This is the called friction. It involves a rather circulatory movement which must be applied very carefully not to cause pain or aggravate the condition. It is planned to benefit.

In the case of athletes whose muscles are hardened and stiff after severe exercise, kneading movements are used. These are the most employed, the tissues being grasped between the fingers and the thumb as they are moved up and down. This must be done to avoid hurting by pressing too hard.

Fine Cast At The Playhouse
William Powell and Myrna Loy Have Leading Roles in "The Thin Man"

The M-G-M-Cosmopolitan film version of Dashiell Hammett's latest and greatest detective mystery, "The Thin Man," opened to-day at the Playhouse Theatre.

And the best of the screen detective, William Powell, plays the leading role, with lovely Myrna Loy as his leading lady.

The story is Nick Charles' story of a pleasure trip to New York with his wealthy wife's money by three baffling murders which he is called upon to solve.

Myrna Loy, as Nora Charles, the wife, for the second time in her life plays a comedy role to perfection, proving that she is one of the most versatile actresses in the picture.

Paul Muni is booked for the Dominion Theatre on Tuesday, in "Bordertown," a Warner Bros. production which is said to be the most colorful and the most powerful drama in which he has yet appeared.

Columbia Stars
Loretta Young

An illuminating revelation of feminine psychology is offered by Loretta Young in "Born to Be Bad," the new 20th Century picture which began a three-day run at the Columbia Theatre to-day.

On the surface she appears hard and all too knowing. Underneath she is all charming bitterness. She is a beautiful and a born actress, changing her mood, her point of view and her reactions according to the man she is trying to beguile.

Cory Grant is co-starred with Loretta in the role of Trevor in this Joseph M. Schenck-Darryl F. Zanuck production. Jackie Kall, promising child star, plays Mickey. Harry Green, Henry Travers and Paul Harvey are featured in the supporting cast.

Lovell Sherman directed "Born to Be Bad" from an original story by Ralph Graves, for release through United Artists.

MILK SUPPLY
FEAR EASED

Up-Island Shipments Stuck,
 But Saanich Comes Through

Up until noon to-day when there were signs that the roads were beginning to clear, Victoria dairymen feared a milk shortage might develop in the city.

Milk supplies from Saanich and Butte districts came through over the week-end, much delay, and there is no fear of them being blocked, but shipments of hundreds of gallons from up-Island got stuck on the highway and island highway. Vancouver, however, is in a precarious situation as regards its milk supply from Victoria, as regular supplies from large areas of the Fraser Valley have been absolutely shut off.

Vancouver dairies over the week-end and to-day were bidding for and buying every gallon of milk they could get in Victoria. The big dairies have shipped to Vancouver last night 25,000 to 30,000 gallons.

A number of milk distributors yesterday had exhausted their supplies and went from one to the other of the big dairy firms asking for a few gallons to help them supply their regular customers.

The large dairy companies which supply milk routes doubled the crews on all their delivery trucks since they could not even get to the middle of last week. Even with the doubled crews, however, they were not able to keep up their service last night.

Some of the delivery trucks were worked on stretches up to twenty hours to maintain the service.

CAR PLUNGES
IN ROCK BAY

Deputy Fire Chief Taylor
 Has Narrow Escape While
 Rushing to Fire

Deputy Fire Chief Robert Taylor, who was rushing to a fire in Rock Bay, was narrowly escaped by a car which plunged into the water while he was en route to a fire at Wilson Street.

The deputy was rescued by Fireman Jack Bostock, 2715 Belmont Avenue, who jumped from a fire truck, waded into the bay and broke the rear window and the top of the car to life the deputy out.

Deputy Taylor was uninjured except for a cut hand and shock. He was taken to the fire hall for first aid treatment and then removed home.

The accident was caused by the icy street and the slippery car. The deputy was traveling along Bay Street and went into a skid near the intersection of Bridge Street. He lost control of the car which catapulted over a thirty-foot embankment and landed right side up in the bay with only a portion of the top showing.

It was reported the machine turned over three times in the air before landing.

Fireman Bostock, one of the members of the department who was turned in the above-mentioned accident, was following the deputy on an apparatus truck. He leaped off and waded into the water to get the deputy out.

As it plunged into the water, the car narrowly missed C. Roberts, 743 John Street, who was saving a log from the wreck.

The deputy and Fireman Bostock were both on the job this morning, but the worst for their experience.

NEW PENSION PLAN STUDIED

Major Differences in Government's Proposed Superannuation Scheme

Major differences between the new provincial government draft bill and the existing act regarding civil employee superannuation were outlined to-day by D. A. Macdonald, city controller, following a survey of the draft.

The new proposals would probably cost the city an additional $20,000 a year, he said.

"The rate of contribution by employees instead of being based on a fixed percentage of salary is to be set according to the age of the employee and then he enters the service," Mr. Macdonald stated.

"The suggested rates run from 2 1/2 per cent in the case of boys under twenty to 10 per cent in the case of employees entering the service after attaining the age of forty-seven."

"The city has to contribute 3 per cent instead of 1 per cent to the special reserve, which is for the purpose of providing allowances in respect of the period of service prior to the city becoming a contributor. That was in 1928," he continued.

"The city will be required to pay 3 per cent interest on the debt balance in the special reserve. POSSIBLE COST INCREASE

"While it is impossible to estimate exactly the extra cost of the new proposals to the city, in view of the thirty loads of wood having been distributed, donations were made all day Sunday.

Gifts to the fund and requests for help from it should be telephoned to Mr. Landberg, Empire 7611.

AGED RESIDENT PASSES
 William Meredith Platt, a resident of Victoria for twenty years, passed away Saturday at the Jubilee Hospital, aged eighty-two years. Mr. Platt was born in Toronto, and had been a resident at the Y.M.C.A.

The remains are at the Thomson Funeral Home, pending funeral arrangements, which will be announced later.

SHIP GROUND
 OFF B.C. COAST

Associated Press
 Seattle, Jan. 21.—Word was received here to-day of the stranding of the veteran Alaska Steamship Company liner Victoria, bound from Seattle to southeastern Alaska with 125 passengers.

The Victoria's master welcomed to his office here that he was bringing the liner back here for survey as she was leaking slightly in her No. 2 hold.

The Victoria was en route in Johnstone Strait between Vancouver Island and the mainland, at 5.25 a.m. in a heavy snowstorm, but was able to refuel herself in two hours. The passengers will be taken north Wednesday on the steamer Tulcan.

SARATOGA DEATH
 Saratoga, Jan. 21.—Mrs. John Russell, eighty-eight, believed to have been the first white woman to travel the Salmon Trail, died yesterday.

Contractors

Group Coming Here to Bid on Government Work
 Were Heavily Delayed
 Past Deadline

A group of Vancouver contractors, coming here to enter bids on a government contract for crumling gravel in the Saanich district, were nearly shut out of the bidding by the snowstorm.

Bids were to close at noon to-day and the snow-bound Vancouver boat at midnight. The bidding held the boat at the Terminal City dock until 1.30 o'clock this morning, and they had visions of not reaching Victoria in time. However, the ship got in at 11 o'clock and they filed tenders on time.

The bids were to be opened at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon.

Larger Rebate
On Gas Sought

Boat Owners Meet Government Seeking Change in Collection Policy

Seeking full rebate of gasoline taxes imposed on the fuel for boats, a delegation of commercial boatowners met the provincial government this morning. They were headed by A. S. McKinnon, 2222, for Point Grey.

It was explained that since the government put in the new system of collecting gas tax last October boatowners had to pay a two-cent tax where they got the gas tax free before under a permit system. This came about because they were called upon to pay several times the tax per gallon when buying the fuel and received a rebate of only five cents.

The delegation asked that the rebate be made seven cents.

Funeral Tuesday
Of W. H. Ozard

Services will be under the auspices of Confederation Lodge No. 116, A.F. & A.M. Canon H. W. G. Stocken will officiate and interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

WELL-KNOWN
COOK IS DEAD

Canadian Press
 Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 21.—Mrs. Evelyn Spencer, lecturer for the Department of Fisheries, Ottawa, and wife of Thomas Spencer of Portland, Ore., died here Saturday following an illness of three months' duration.

Mrs. Spencer had established a wide reputation as an authority on fish and the cooking of fish. She was at one time engaged by the United States Government to popularize fish as a food in an effort to increase consumption of fish in the industry.

Mrs. Spencer was well known in Victoria, having lectured here last year on cooking.

Five-year Plan
Crusade Halted

Bad Weather Forces Campaigners to Postpone Island Tour

Now on the roads yesterday caused the postponement of the scheduled tour of the island by the Five Year Plan crusaders.

Harold Russell, president of the Victoria branch of the Five Year Plan, and B. A. McKinnon and T. H. Bullock started out yesterday with their car equipped with acid chains. Finding the snow-covered roads too dangerous they attempted to turn over the Malahat. They got so far as Niagara Canyon and turned back. They called at a telephone station to send word to the places at which they were scheduled to speak to say the trip would be postponed for fourteen days.

A drug store owned by George Bales suffered more than the others, approximately $600 worth of stock being lost. The loss at the Sidney Trading Company was reported to be about $300.

All areas around city were flooded, and the traffic difficulties were increased when the government snow-plough broke down.

Home Brewer,
Fined, Appeals

For having a stock of home made cider wine and blackberry wine and supplying his friends, Arthur Beauchamp of Port Renfrew was recently found guilty by Magistrate Jay of breaching the liquor law and was fined $50 or three months in jail.

To-day Frank Higgins, K.C., opened an appeal on Mr. Beauchamp's behalf to Judge Langman.

Charles O. White, for the prosecution, at the opening of the hearing presented some preliminary objections, one of which was that J. V. Coppock, whom an affidavit had been sworn, was not a justice of the peace as required by the law.

The judge delayed ruling on these points, but it was found it was impossible to go on with the trial as three police officers, the prosecution's chief witnesses, were snowbound at Courtenay. The judge adjourned the trial until the police can get through. Beauchamp's bail of $500 was continued.

INVITATIONS

Speaker Sends Out List: Two Galleries Will Be Unreserved

While the rush of applications for seats for the opening of the Legislature next month is not as heavy as it was for the first session last year, there are more "than enough" to fill the seats allotted to the reserved list, it was indicated to-day.

Mr. Speaker H. G. Perry sent out the official courtesy invitations for the opening to-day. These include leaders of the clergy, magistrates, federal members of B.C. senators, federal members of B.C. senators, wives and so forth.

Mr. Perry said the reservations would be accommodated in the speaker's and the ladies' gallery and be expected both the side galleries would be thrown open to the public unreserved, the same as last year.

Threatened Suspension of Basketball Players Who Have Not Taken Out Amateur Cards Vanishes; Agree on Plan to Clear Up Affair

Vancouver, Jan. 21.—Basketball players throughout British Columbia who have not taken out amateur cards, noted earlier today as they threatened suspension by the B.C. Branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, today agreed to a plan to clear up the matter.

A week-end meeting that started Saturday night and wound up yesterday afternoon found the amateur officials and officials of the British Columbia Basketball Association in full agreement.

The meeting was called by the amateur executives to discuss action against those players who had failed to take out their cards. The B.C.A.A. had threatened that they did not need cards unless on a team entering the British Columbia playoffs. Basketball heads were invited to attend.

PRESENT TWO MOTIONS
First the A.A.U. executive proposed a motion to clear up the affair. The basketball heads objected and drew up one of their own. The motion was passed after a discussion until it was discovered that both motions were almost identical in meaning although somewhat differently worded.

Headed were put together and the following motion passed with the firm approval of everyone present: "That the British Columbia Basketball Association will insist all members of teams participating in games leading to British Columbia playoffs must carry A.A.U. of C. cards."
And the basketball heads said that, in effect, was what they had been doing all along.

BLUE RIBBONS HAND BON MARCHE DEFEAT

under. Jackson replaced Froude. Froude scored on a solo as he intercepted a Seattle fumble and came again the local boys up ten points. The players were finding it difficult to hang on to the ball and fumbles were beginning to creep into the game. Froude missed a free throw and the third quarter at 24 to 14.

FINAL QUARTER
Andrews failed around his check to score on a push shot. It was shortly after this that Art Chapman was forced out of the game with an injured knee. Seattle scored on a nice pass from Froude, and then Willis took Chuck Chapman's pass to make the score 20 to 14. With about five minutes left to play, Seattle went all out and in their endeavor to even up the count they roughed up play considerably. Jackson scored, and then Geoffrey came through with another one of his thrillers from near the centre mark. Froude missed a free throw awarded against Foster and then Jackson sent Geoffrey's rebound to make 22 to 20. Foster made it 20 to 22 seconds later and the crowd was becoming anxious. Andrews brought joy to the local camp by knocking in Martin's pass and Froude finished off a good night's work by being fouled in a free throw to make the final score, Blue Ribbons 22, Seattle 20.

In the preliminary game the Ducks defeated the Doo-Dee, 24 to 22. Alan Le Marquand refereed.

MSPADEN IS GOLF LEADER

Kansas City Pro Breaks Course Record to Lead in Sacramento Open

Sacramento, Jan. 21.—MSPaden, a gutter which defied a cold winter day and bursted up a frosty golf course brought Harold MSPaden, slender young Kansas City, Kan., professional, into the lead of the $1,500 Sacramento open tournament at the end of thirty-six holes yesterday.

MSPaden scored the long 67-71 municipal course in 61 strokes, five better than par and three strokes under the course record. With his 73 on Saturday, he leaped into the lead at 140 strokes.

Finishing under the last rays of a sun which tried hard, but succeeded miserably in warming the atmosphere, Jim Edmunds, Calverton, who had 72 Saturday, started par by three strokes with a 66 to tie James Fogarty, Kirkwood, Mo., for second place at 141.

A stroke back of him appeared the first of the quartette that led the field Saturday with 70, Charles Lacey, Great Neck, N.Y., who added a 72 yesterday for a thirty-six-hole score of 142, and Gene Zimmerman, Portland, Ore. Zimmerman turned in a 68 to lead his 73 of Saturday. That 68 was the course record until MSPaden came in with his 67.

SARAHAN SLINGS
Gene Sarahan, New York, author of Saturday's leading quartette, could do no better than a 74, two over par, and his thirty-six-hole score of 144 was matched by John Percell, Lake Tahoe. Percell had a 69 to go with a 75 of Saturday.

Five more players were grouped at 145. They included the two remaining members of Saturday's front runners, Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., and Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa. Both slumped to a 78 yesterday.

Backed with them were Ted Longworth, another sharpshooter out of the Pacific Northwest, who had 75-72, Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N.J., who added a 74 yesterday to his 71 of Saturday, and Sam Parks of Pittsburgh, 74-71.

Back of these leaders but within striking distance of them was a group of the game's outstanding players. Jimmy Thomson, Long Beach, Calif., had 71-75-148. Vic Ghetti, Deal, N.J., winner last week of the Los Angeles Open, shot yesterday for 73-72-147, and Willie Oggins, San Francisco, cut a stroke from perfect figures on the second eighteen holes with 70-71-147.

Securities Hold To Narrow Swings On New York List

Associated Press
New York, Jan. 21.—With all speculative eyes turned on the United States stock market, waiting for the gold clause decision, more financial markets today did little more than stand by.

While a number of operations and financial houses continued to move up on small volume, the general run of equities seemed content to hold in a narrow margin.

Domestic, International, United and Canadian Pacific ruled unchanged to slightly higher. On the other hand, Lake Shore and Michigan Central were steady. Domestic government bonds were lower. Canadian bonds were 1-16 of a cent at 99.93 cents.

Preferred shares of U.S. Steel and Bethlehem got up around two to three points each, while common shares of both companies, together with those of Republic and Otis, were higher. Preferred Steel Corp. preferred pushed up three. Caterpillar Tractor was up slightly and Milliken Manufacturing advanced about two.

International Harvester, Case and Deere found following for gains of one-half to one point. General Motors gained a point, and Ford, General Motors and American Smelting found.

No surprise was shown in the financial sector that the highest court did not hand down the gold ruling today. The consensus was that the decision would not be announced until the justice convene again on February 4, after their recess.

The range of today's Dow Jones average was as follows:
